Silk Warehouses In Shanghai Burn Loss $6,000,000

SHANGHAI, CHINA, March 12.—Several silk warehouses, containing over half of the amount of silk available for export in this city, were burned here today, the loss being estimated at $6,000,000. Seven other warehouses took fire, and are still burning. Should their loss be complete, the damage will reach $10,000,000, it is estimated.

The destruction of silk cocoons stored in the warehouses will enforce the closing of most of the spinning establishments here until the new crop in May. Cancellation of many contracts for silk is considered inevitable.

SHERIFF PLACED IN CHARGE OF SITUATION; WITHHOLD MARTIAL LAW

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 12.—Springfield was quiet today following a night of disorder in which Patrolman Joseph Ryan and a negro were wounded in interchanges of shots between policemen and negroes.

Sheriff David Jones, of Clark county, was placed in complete charge of the situation at a conference of military and civil officials here today.

An order was immediately issued forbidding all public gatherings after six o'clock this evening and ordering stoppage of street car service and automobile traffic after 7 p. m.

The order means cessation of all traffic on the streets and closing of all moving picture houses, theaters and other places for public gatherings.

Mayor B. J. Westcott announced that it was the opinion of the conference that the situation could be handled by the sheriff and he was placed in charge in preference to putting the city under military or martial law.

Ohio guardsmen—two Springfield companies and one from London—who helped quell last night's disturbances, were augmented early today by Company M from Marysville.

Machine guns are mounted at the county jail and although the militiamen are not patrolling the streets, they are under arms and ready to answer riot calls. A truck with a machine gun mounted on it is available to make hurried trips.

Colonel Robert Haubrich, of the Fourth Ohio, took formal command of the guardsmen.

The remainder of the Fourth, mobilized in their home cities last night, and will remain in readiness for entrainment orders, it was announced at military headquarters at the city hall.

Adjutant General Florence, of the Fourth Regiment, Ohio National Guard, is directing the military conferences with city and county officials.

The Fourth Regiment is composed mostly of world war veterans who fought overseas in the 16th Infantry, the Ohio regiment in the famous Rainbow Division. This is the first time a contingent of the Ohio militia has been called out for active duty since the reorganization of the Ohio National Guard.

James White, a young negro, captured shortly before noon by a posse of farmers several miles north of Springfield after a running battle, confessed to police that he was guilty of the shooting of Patrolman Joseph Ryan in last night's racial disorders, they announced this afternoon.

White was brought to this city and lodged in the county jail, which is strongly guarded by a cordon of national guardsmen.

Police, after announcing the confession, said that they had previous definite knowledge that White was the man who had shot Ryan.

On his person when he was captured was found a .22 calibre automatic pistol, with which Ryan is said to have been shot.

After being captured by the posse, White was turned over to Deputy Sheriff Walter Lewis and City Patrolman Charles Wunderly, who brought him to this city.

Not To Patrol Streets With Troops

Adjutant General Florence returned to Columbus this afternoon following the conference with city authorities, leaving Colonel Haubrich in charge of the military troops.

Colonel Haubrich said it was not the intention at this time to use the troops for patrolling the streets tonight excepting that a few guards would be stationed at strategic points. They will be held in reserve at the military headquarters to be sent out only in case the local police are unable to cope with the situation.

City firemen will again aid the police tonight in patrolling the streets.

City Manager Parsons was making a tour of inspection of the city this afternoon with several influential colored citizens, urging all colored people to remain in their homes and not to do anything that might excite trouble.

WOUNDED PATROLMAN DESCRIBES SHOOTING

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 12.—Patrolman Ryan issued a statement concerning the shooting in which he was injured, while he was lying on a table at police headquarters waiting to be taken to the city hospital. He said: "I had been trying all evening to get those negroes to disperse and go home. They would separate for a few minutes and then gather together again. I went after them again and told them to move on. One negro—like one who shot me a few minutes later—said: 'We don't have to move on for you.' I then said: 'You'll come with me then.' I took hold of him and made a hurried search of his person for a gun. He must have had it concealed in his coat sleeve, for it was not in his pockets. He was walking in front of me. Before we had taken a dozen steps he drew a gun. I struck him on the nose with my mace just as he fired. The first shot struck me in the hand and the second hit me just under the chin."

Police believe it will be easy to identify Ryan's assailant, because of an injury inflicted by the policeman's mace on his nose.

Wage Reductions On Erie Road Wiped Out

NEW YORK, March 12.—Reductions in wages of common labor, put into effect by the Erie Railroad on January 31, have been wiped out and the former wage schedule restored, it was announced here today at the general offices of the company.

The company's statement said that a "slightly improved conditions of business permitted payment of the old scale."

The railroad labor board recently condemned action of the road for not first submitting the proposed reductions to it for approval and ordered restoration of the former scale.

The announcement said that the road now would formally submit the whole question of wages to the railroad labor board.

Huge Devil Fish Tows Two Boats Forty Miles

PALM BEACH, FLA., March 12.—Florenz Zeigfeld, Jr., and J. Leonard Replege, battled for eight hours yesterday with a giant ray, or devil fish, that towed two boats 40 miles from Palm Beach and seventeen miles to sea, and then escaped when the cable broke, although its body bore four harpoons, eight rifle bullets and fifteen wounds from lances.

The sea monster was in sight of the bathers near the breakers' pier when discovered. Mr. and Mrs. Zeigfeld had ended a day's fishing trip in Mr. Replege's boat when their attention was directed to the monster. Immediately two fast motor boats started in pursuit.

Occupants of both boats threw harpoons into the fish, which immediately sped away to sea. Army rifle bullets were fired into its body, but the fish did not slacken speed. At nightfall the cables to the harpoons parted and the fish escaped.

Airplanes followed the boats and watched the struggle.

Appointment Of Dr. Sawyer Stirs Up Controversy Between Homeopaths And Allopaths

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
(Copyrighted, 1921, by Times Pub. Co.)
WASHINGTON, March 12.—President Harding has encountered a phase of official life that perhaps is little understood by the outside world but which involves personal embarrassments and murmurs of criticism that makes the problems of a chief executive worrisome from the start.

First and foremost is the peculiar situation surrounding the appointment of Dr. C. E. Sawyer, as Brigadier General in the army in order that he might serve as White House physician. Everybody in Washington has come to know in recent years how necessary it is that there be a physician at the White House not merely to care for the president in the event of illness but to see to it that the chief executive apportion his time between work and play so he will not suffer a physical breakdown.

When President Harding was faced with the question, he wanted, of course, to retain the services of his family physician, Dr. Sawyer of Marion, Ohio, but there was no way of attaching a private individual to the White House staff. Admiral Carey T. Grayson was already in the United States navy and was a simple matter to have him detached to the White House as a naval aide to President Willard. The controversy over Dr. Grayson, however, had nothing to do with his selection as White House physician but Republican Senators said it was wrong to give him the promotion to the rank of admiral. Since that time, however, there has been a change of feeling and the same Republican Senators to a man confirm the nomination of Dr. Sawyer to be Brigadier General even though the latter had previously not been an officer in the army at all. The Democratic senators of course, feeling that the Grayson precedent was justified could offer no objection.

Round-About Method
But beneath it is the fact that the president of the United States must resort to the round-about process of appointing a man either to high rank in the army or navy to get the services of the physician he desires. Mr. Harding is not unmindful of the fact, too, that there are lots of army officers who served overseas feeling pretty blue and compelled to take the stars of the Brigadier General's rank from their shoulders and put on the insignia of lower rank. But how else was Mr. Harding to get Dr. Sawyer on the White House staff except to make him a military or naval aide? The fault really lies in the failure of Congress to provide the White House with an appropriation for a physician to take care not only of the president but of his household. The importance to the country of the life of its president is recognized in the appropriation made for secret service guards. The government moreover provides money for servants at the White House but there is no attitude more important than the man who sees to it that the president is kept in good health.

Unquestionably there has been a

"Clara Hamon Prepared For Long Trip"

ARMORE, OKLA., March 12.—Testimony that Clara Hamon, on trial for the alleged murder of Jake L. Hamon, came to his garage the day before Hamon was shot and ordered two extra casings placed on her automobile, saying that she was "going to take a long trip," was offered today by Harry Foster, a garage employee.

Foster, the first witness called by the state today, also said that he had seen Clara Hamon with a pistol a number of times and that the morning following Hamon's shooting Clara came to the garage and asked that tire changes be made quickly as she had far to go.

The witness said the young woman was very nervous. He saw no bruises on her face or hands, he testified. It was agreed by counsel that the afternoon session of court should be curtailed to one hour.

Clara Smith Hamon late yesterday returned to the hotel rooms occupied by herself and Mr. Hamon, and in the presence of the jury re-arranged the furniture as it was on the night of the shooting. A short time later, when taking of testimony was resumed, she heard the testimony of Dr. Walter Hardy, that Mr. Hamon had come to his sanitarium with the declaration: "I'm shot by Clara Hamon." A subsequent statement of Hamon's to the effect that he "was shot while lying in bed, also was quoted by Dr. Hardy."

While Dr. Hardy was on the stand the state offered in evidence the blood-stained undergarments of Hamon, which previously it had been said were burned to prevent his wife's seeing them.

Dr. Hardy testified that Mr. Hamon staggered toward him, pale of face and kissed him on the forehead. In reply

Goodman Exonerated

A petition for removal to the Eastern States District court at Cincinnati of the jury in the case of Gurian Goodman, Nauvoo steelworker, who was brought to trial before Judge Thomas in Common Pleas court Friday on a charge of rape with consent upon 15 year old Stella Giles, of Nauvoo, last August. The jury turned its verdict late court at 10:30 Saturday morning after deliberating less than 30 minutes, thus ending one of the most stubbornly fought criminal cases tried in the local courts for sometime. This was the second hearing of the case, the first having resulted in a mistrial through the failure of the jury to agree.

Goodman was defended by Attorneys Blair and Blair and they made a strong fight for their client and prosecutor. Shepard, an Attorney Theo. F. Funk, vigorously handled the prosecution for the state, the latter making the closing address to the jury Saturday morning.

Removal of Damage Suit Sought
A petition for removal to the Eastern States District court at Cincinnati of the case of Alouzo Purdy and Eliza Purdy and others against the Norfolk and Western Railway company was filed in Common Pleas court by Attorneys Bannion and Bannion on behalf of the railroad company, together with the required bond.

The plaintiffs sued to recover damages in the sum of $10,000.75 which they claim represents their loss through the destruction by fire of their flour mill and contents at Lucasville on Jan. 21, 1921, and allege that the fire was caused by sparks from a passing locomotive.

The removal of the case to the district court is sought on the ground that the Millers National Fire Insurance company and the Mutual Fire Insurance company, party plaintiffs, are corporations of states other than Ohio.

The plaintiffs brought the action through Attorney E. G. Millar.

Inventory Filed
An inventory and appraisement of the estate of the late Leopold Walter, who died recently at his home in this city, filed in probate court Friday shows personal property valued at $5425 and real estate at $9,760. The appraisers were George Havercotte, William Dorman and George Dorman.

Vance Taken To Pen
Walter Vance, Chillicothe man, former construction foreman for the N. and W., who was sentenced to the penitentiary Thursday on his plea of guilty to one of a number of indictments charging him with forgery of checks secured from his employers by padding payrolls, was taken to the big prison at Columbus Saturday by Deputy Sheriff Harry Dunham to begin on his sentence.

Suit On Account
Suit to collect the sum of $7,533.90

claimed to be due on an account for coal was brought by The Andie Coal company in Common Pleas court Saturday against F. W. Allard and others doing business as The Jackson-Sheldan Fuel company.

The plaintiffs sued through Attorney R. F. Kimble.

Petit Jury Back Monday
At the conclusion of the Gurian Goodman trial Saturday Judge Thomas excused the petit jury until one o'clock Monday when it comes back to hear the case of Leslie "Smuffy" Davis, New Boston young man, charged with making menacing motion towards a Greek dursting some trouble at the New Boston waiting station restaurant recently.

The accused will be represented by Attorneys Blair and Blair and Prosecutor Sheppard will appear for the state.

Dog Tag Sale Falling Off

A total of 2670 dog tags had been disposed of by Auditor Coburn up until Saturday noon, which compared with the more than 3,500 sold during 1920, indicates there is about a thousand tagless still outside the fold.

The auditor reports that the sale of dog licenses has fallen away to almost nothing in the past few days, but an order drive is being planned by the dog catcher soon and this is expected to stimulate the sales.

Marriage Licenses

James C. Hankla, 32, soldier, Liberty, Ky., and Mary D. Strango, 18, telephone operator, city. Rev. George P. Horst.

Robert T. Haislet, 24, signal supervisor, city, and Eva E. Legler, 31, bookkeeper, city. Rev. D. C. Boyd.

Charges Dismissed

After hearing the evidence in the case of Conrad Loet, New Boston young man, charged with larceny in connection with the theft of an automobile recently, Judge Johnson in Municipal court Saturday dismissed the complaint for lack of convincing proof to support the charge.

A complaint charging John Noel with disorderly conduct for breaking a bottle in the street was also dismissed the evidence failing to substantiate the charge, the court held.

PUTS UP GOOD FIGHT; BALKS FOOTPAD ARMED WITH A GUN

The fact that he did not lose his nerve and was able to put up a real fight saved J. Taylor Coldiron, a well-known insurance agent, from being robbed of over $200 at 10:45 last night.

A man wearing a mask and armed with a revolver stepped up to Mr. Coldiron near Seventh and Boundary streets last night and said, "Give us your money and be quick about it. I know you got some in your jeans."

Mr. Coldiron "grappled" with the man until help arrived. When the man approached to help Coldiron came within 25 feet, the holdup man leveled his gun at the stranger and held him away from Coldiron, while he backed away from the corner and made his escape down the alley from where he first appeared.

Coldiron was walking south on Boundary, just south of Eighth street, and had just passed the alley between the two streets when a man came out of the alley and walked up behind him. The holdup man held a gun in his right hand and when he pressed the gun against Coldiron's breast he threw his left arm around him in an attempt to throw him to the sidewalk. Coldiron retained his nerve and grabbed the right hand of the man and held it above his head. He got his left hand free and held the holdup man's left arm down to his side. From the sidewalk they scuffled into the street and after several falls in the street the pair reached the intersection of Seventh and Boundary streets, where they fought under the bright arc light.

Mr. Coldiron had retained a firm grip on the footpad and had succeeded in keeping him from using the gun until the corner was reached. Here the holdup man got Coldiron down and succeeded in striking him a blow on top of the head with the revolver.

Mr. Coldiron kept calling for help, and his calls were answered by a neighbor, who was hurrying to his aid just as the footpad got the best of him and was ready to go through his pockets. As the man came to Coldiron the footpad got up and pointed his gun at the man and told him to stay where he was, the high-voltage adjusting his mask and backing away until he came to the mouth of the alley where he attacked Coldiron.

Coldiron had a two-inch cut on his head this morning, as evidence of where the holdup man struck him with the butt of the revolver.

Mr. Coldiron at once notified the police, and Chief Distel, Captain Starzman and Officer Payne hurried to the scene, but found no trace of the robber.

According to Coldiron, he wore a cap, a dark overcoat and a dark suit. He says he believes he saw a man in a poolroom on Eighth street yesterday and that he sized him up closely when he had a $20 bill changed. "I am convinced that it was the same man, as he watched my actions very closely," Mr. Coldiron told a Times man this morning. He says he had been down town and took the 10:30 car home, getting off at Eighth and Campbell avenue. He says he was walking to his home, 2005 Fifth street and had reached Eighth and Boundary streets and was headed for Seventh when the robber emerged from the alley.

Pearl Cranstom and Oscar Strickland who were on the corner of Seventh and Campbell avenue when the attempted hold-up occurred, say they saw a man run past that corner and he was tall, wore a cap and dark overcoat. They did not know what had occurred and did not chase after him.

Chief Distel and Captain Starzman and Officer Payne spent most of the night in the vicinity of the hold-up, but found no trace of their man. Coldiron has furnished the police with a good clue and the arrest of the footpad is expected soon. Neighbors say that a young man was lurking in the neighborhood for more than an hour before the holdup.

PETROGRAD REPORTED TAKEN

WARSAW, Mar. 12.—Petrograd is in the hands of revolutionary forces, and the Bolsheviks have been ousted it was declared in a wireless dispatch received here today. The message, which was confused and disconnected, owing to the weakness of the sending station, is believed to have been sent out from Petrograd.

A dispatch from Vilna says anti-Bolshevik forces fought their way into Moscow and held control of the city for five hours, but were later driven out by soviet forces. While occupying the city, the revolutionists killed many local communists, it is said, and when the Bolsheviks re-entered the town they executed more than 200 persons, many of whom were Poles, who were accused of sympathizing with the insurgents.

modern civilization is gauged. Each succeeding generation of children—your boy, your girl—is saturated with this false spirit by the many untoward influences of life in the house, on the street, in school, on every hand. Being molded by these influences they can only be godless and unchristian.

Each sermon of the month will be part of the series, with a close connection running through all. Therefore, you will not want to miss a single service.

Will Forward Local Contributions To China

The recently published letter of Mrs. Irma Rardin Davis, stating a few facts concerning the famine in China, has awakened sympathy in the hearts of some Portsmouth people.

808 Waller street in forwarding their contributions to the famine sufferers. His, unless transformed into substantial aid, avails nothing. How much do you pity the famine sufferers? There are more than 15,500,000 of these stricken people.

HARDING TO INSIST ON AMERICAN RIGHTS

WASHINGTON, Mar. 12.—(By A. P.)—The policy of the Harding administration with respect to American rights growing out of the participation of the United States in the world war will not differ materially from that of the Wilson administration, it was learned today in authoritative quarters.

Adjustment of the situation growing out of the award of a mandate over the Pacific Island of Yap will be insisted upon as determined by this administration as it was by the last. It was said, and the attitude with respect to the British mandate over Mesopotamia, will be maintained. It has been made clear that the new administration will continue to defend the contention that the United States has not yielded and cannot be deprived of any of her rights as one of the victors and must be considered in the adjustment of the problems created by the war.

Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Shump will entertain a few friends at dinner Sunday in their handsome home in City View on the West Side.

A Notable Musical Event

Under the direction of Mrs. J. M. Stockham, rehearsals of the music of Sir John Stainer's "The Crucifixion"—A Meditation on the Sacred Passion of the Holy Redeemer—are now in progress at All Saints' church. This composition, perhaps unique in the history of sacred music for its beauty and pathos will be rendered on Good Friday evening at 7:30, by a corps of soloists and a chorus specially recruited for the occasion. It will be one of the most notable musical events in years. The principal baritone soloist will be Mr. Clyde Knost of Cincinnati and he will be supported by vocalists thoroughly capable of doing justice to the work. Their names will be published in another article. All who love fine music should make a note of the day and hour of this event and plan to be present. The seating capacity of the church will be augmented for the occasion.

This Love Song Brings $10,000

The musical extract below is an excerpt of: WHEN YOU'RE GONE I WON'T FORGET, one of the prettiest love songs written since SILVER THREADS AMONG THE GOLD. For the copyright of this ballad, the publisher paid $10,000. This song is the answer to that stupendous song success which has been sweeping the country: WHEN YOU'RE GONE YOU'LL SOON FORGET. It will become just as popular. The extract of the chorus below was clipped from a copy of the song just received.

This song will no doubt win great fame throughout the country owing to its wonderful lyric and tuneful and catchy melody which are well blended together. When once heard, it will never be forgotten. It is splendidly recorded for Player Pianos and Phonographs.

WEAK; RUN-DOWN

Carolina Lady Got So She Could Just Drag—"Cardui Built Me Up," She Declares.

Kernerville, N. C.—In an interesting statement regarding Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, Mrs. Wesley Mabe of near here, recently said: "I have known Cardui for years, but never knew its worth until a year or so ago. I was in a weakened, run-down condition. I became draggy—didn't eat or sleep to any good; couldn't do anything without a great effort. I tried different remedies and medicines, yet I continued to drag. "I decided to give Cardui a trial, and found it was just what I really needed. It made me feel much stronger soon after I began to use it. I began to eat more, and the nervous, weak feeling began to leave. Soon I was sleeping good. "Cardui built me up as no other tonic ever did. "I used Cardui with one daughter who was puny, felt bad and tired out all the time. It brought her right out, and soon she was as well as a girl could be. We think there is nothing like Cardui." Do not allow yourself to become weak and run-down from womanly troubles. Take Cardui. You may find it just what you really need. For more than 40 years it has been used by thousands and thousands, and found just as Mrs. Mabe describes. At your druggist. NC-143

Wrong Uses Of The Bible

By John Collins Jackson

VII.
The writer of these articles is much encouraged in his effort to interest the public in the study of the most valuable book in the world—the Bible, by numerous commendations and expressions of appreciation from persons whose opinions he highly esteems. Ignorance of the Bible among otherwise intelligent people is deplorably common. Out of a large graduating class in a woman's college not one could tell who wrote the Book of the Acts. The principal of one of the public schools in a large city of Ohio asked me who it was that said, "Cleanliness is next to godliness." Her Sunday school superintendent thought it was Paul, but she believed it was John; and neither of them could find it. They had searched the Scriptures. They had assured her that she was right, that it was John, but not one of the Bible Johns—it was John Wesley. Like many other wise sayings, it is not in the Bible, but it is good enough to be there. It was born out of the Bible's influence; but God has not limited wisdom and goodness of thought even to the sacred scriptures. Ignorance of the Bible is not confined to the multitudes who never read it. Many claim to be "great students of the Bible" who really know little about this divine library, because their study of it is wholly from a partisan standpoint. They have inherited a theology, or else made one of their own, and they go to the scriptures to find words here or there or anywhere, which may be quoted in supposed support of their theory. They do not study the Bible in an impartial, scientific way, as they would be obliged to do with any other literature in the world, if they expected to stand an examination on its real meaning. Texts taken without any regard whatever for the original writer's thought-texts torn out by the roots from the context, and dogmatically affirmed to prove their point. In that way slavery was once defended as a divine institution, the Mormons propagated polygamy as having God's sanction, and the liquor traffic justified itself, all by citing texts from the Bible. And why not? Did not Satan himself quote scripture to Jesus when trying to tempt Him to sin? The Bible becomes like a box of tricks, if so used, which may be made to spell out almost anything one wishes. Many doctrinaires oppose a scientific investigation of the original meaning of the scriptures because that method leaves their "doxy," or their "igion," without any support. The popular method is to put a verse of the Bible on the rack and torture out of it whatever you like, no matter how fanciful or grotesque the exegesis may be. Eddings and Russellism and like cults demonstrate how easy and plausible is this plan. Likewise extreme sectarianism rejects the light and knowledge which modern literary analysis throws upon the Scriptures. It will not even use the revised version of the Bible for that reason. In its biennial convention, a certain sect bitterly denounced the revised version, declaring that "not all

Brakeman Sues C. & O. N. For $2,000 Damages

IRONTON, Mar. 12.—An action asking $2,000 damages against the Chesapeake and Ohio Northern Railway Company was brought in Common Pleas court Friday by John and Jones attorneys for the plaintiff, Pearl Newman. Newman was head brakeman on the C. and O. Northern and sustained as alleged in the petition, numerous injuries when the boiler of the engine of his train blew up November 12, 1920, hurling him through the window of the cab and quite a distance. The plaintiff alleges he has been permanently injured and incapacitated and asks damages by reason of the fact that the company was guilty of negligence in permitting the engine to be operated without water, permitting the boiler to be overhauled, not buying same kept properly cleaned and the reason of lack of proper inspection.

EXPECT NEW CHILDREN'S HOME TO BE READY BY THE MIDDLE OF APRIL

Scioto county's handsome new Children's Home building at Wheelersburg is virtually completed and will be ready for occupancy within a few days, an official inspection made Friday afternoon by officials disclosed. In the inspection party were members of the building committee, composed of Messrs. W. E. Cook, Harry E. Taylor, John Duis and W. W. Fawer; County Commissioners J. H. Appel, W. O. Shively and Jacob Kubner, who by reason of their offices are members of the committee; Roy Coburn, county auditor; Mrs. Irving Drew and Mrs. W. H. Schwartz, Home Trustees and Miss May Workman, matron; representatives of the firm of Devens and Donaldson, architects, and Contractors Jones and Lallow. The inspection required several hours and everything about the substantial structure was found satisfactory except a few inconspicuous items in the electric wiring which will soon be corrected and the building will then be ready to be turned over to the county. The officials complimented the contractors, Jones and Lallow, on the splendid execution of their contract in erecting the structure which is one of the most beautiful and comfortable public buildings in southern Ohio, and one which will stand as a monument of their work well done for many years to come. Furniture and equipment for the home bought from the state is now in storage in this city, and it will be installed within a few weeks as it is believed the new home will be ready for occupancy by the middle of April. The old home is now in a crowded condition and it is planned to move into the new building at the earliest possible time as the opening of the

MISS DOLLY WISE

She is here to answer any and all questions concerning love, matrimony, troubles, woes, edginess, etc. Inquiries should be addressed to Miss Dolly Wise, care The Daily Times, Portsmouth, Ohio.

Dolly Wise—Where is Fort Crockett? Thank you. ANXIOUS, Galveston, Texas.

Portsmouth, O., March 10, 1921.
Dear Miss Wise—I haven't any experience in "bessmaking," but I would like to help come one in my spare time. I could learn. But Dolly, I only have three hours each day. Do you know of a place where I could learn?
LOUISE.

Why not talk to different persons who do plain sewing, about your proposition? I could give you some names if you send me a stamped addressed envelope.

Miss Dolly Wise—I am a girl 19 and have been going with a fellow aged 20. I have kept steady company with him for nine months. He says he cares for me and I think the world and all of him. But there is a girl at his boarding house who comes between us all the time. We quit different times, but in a week's time we make up again. She tells him things that are not true. Now Dolly what do you think of this girl?
KITTY.

If this "love-affair" is to be such a struggle, you'd better quit altogether. Both you and the boy are too young any way to consider it serious. Evidently he doesn't. It may be a passing infatuation for you, and in a short time will forget him.

Dear Miss Wise—Please tell me the meaning of the word, "Mizpah," and all you know about the history of the word.
READER.

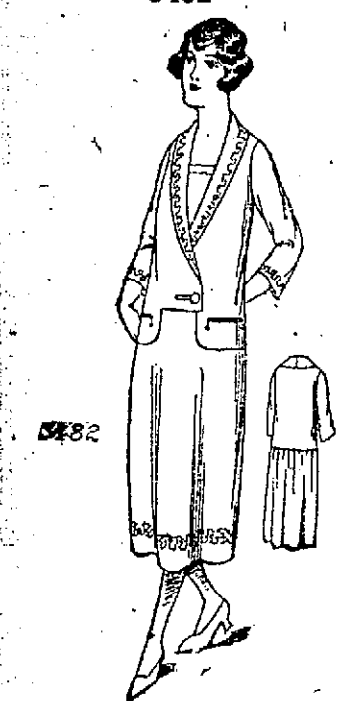

The meaning of the word when used in a ring or other piece of jewelry means, "The Lord watch over thee and me, when we are apart," one from the other.

(1) Mizpah or Mizpeh, the name of several places referred to in the Old Testament, in each case, probably derived from a "commanding prospect," the Hebrew name having that significance. (2) Mizpah of Gilead, where Jacob was reconciled to Laban; apparently the site of the camp of the Israelites when about to attack the Ammonites under Jephthah's leadership.

(3) Mizpah of Benjamin. It has been suggested on hardly sufficient grounds, that the Mizpah, where the Hebrews assembled before the extermination of the Benjaminites, was not the shrine where Samuel made his headquarters. It was fortified by Asa and after the destruction of Jerusalem was the seat of the viceregent Gedaliah; here Gedaliah was murdered. After the exile it retained the tradition of being a seat of government, and a holy place. It is probably to be identified with the mountain

BILLY WALKER

Violet was so surprised when she saw Billy that she sank down all in a heap on the damp, black soil, and he can guess what the back of her dress looked like when she got up, so I won't stop to tell you.

"Billy, how ever in the world did you get here? Where is Nannie?" Billy blushed that he had told Nannie he had better not try to follow, as she was not as good at jumping as he was. Of course, Violet could not understand, still, she guessed what he was trying to get to tell her.

"Well, now you are here, you will have to go with us, for I am afraid you might get lost if I sent you back." It proved afterward that it was a very good thing he followed for he saved Sheep's life, or was the means of it being saved, which amounted to the same thing.

They had walked farther and farther into the woods, picking blackberries along its edge, drinking out of the spring that trickled through a large moss-covered rock, as if it were an artificial fountain; exploring a small cave where Sheep had killed three or four snakes, by shaking them and breaking their necks with one snap, as a man cracks his whip; chasing a grouse into its hole, and, best of all, examining a dam some beavers had built clear across a stream quite as well as any masons could have built it, and they were about to turn homeward when they heard Sheep barking in a most excited manner and emitting low growls between barks.

Billy, on hearing this, unlike most dogs, rushed about to see what was the matter, for there was a fight he wanted to be in it.

Mr. West thought Sheep had probably met a tramp, who had thrown something at him, or annoyed him in some way, so all hurried forward. Presently they came out on a muddy clearing, and on the edge of this they found Sheep and a big hog, as fierce looking as a wild boar engaged in deadly combat. Sheep had found the hog wallowing in the mud and had attempted to drive him out. Instead of running, the hog had turned on Sheep for interfering with him, and had told him that he had as much right in the woods as any dog. This Sheep resented, as the hog belonged to one of the neighbors, while the woods belonged to Mr. West, and so the quarrel began and was well under way, having turned into a regular fight when Mr. West, Violet and Billy appeared on the scene. Sheep was so angry that his hair stood up on his back like the bristles on a hog. He was snapping at the hog and the hog was retaliating by grunting, gutting, grunts, while at the same time trying to bury his two fangs in the flesh of the dog. Suddenly, Sheep slipped on a slimy log and would have fallen and been ripped open by the vicious hog, but that Billy, who saw the danger that Sheep was in, came to the rescue by tossing the old hog over his back with his strong horns and then kicking him until he was glad enough to squeal and run grunting away.

"Thank you, Billy, for that," said Sheep, "you have saved my life and from now on we are fast friends." (Tomorrow good news is brought to the animals by the doctor's horse.)

Her Own Career

(BY PHYLLIS PHILLIPS)

THE BREAK.
It was while the company was playing to packed houses in Los Angeles, some two weeks later, that Gwendolyn got her opportunity to step out of her Russian Ballet and without unnecessary explanations.

Vassili himself was responsible for her hurried leave-taking, for one night after the performance he entered Gwendolyn's dressing room, and after sitting about despite her flitting, which was meant to convey to him that she was dissatisfied of dressing for the street, he got lost of himself and made violent love to the over-tired and excited girl.

Gwendolyn had had a long letter from John Neale that very morning, telling her that he was sailing for London the very next day, at two minutes' notice, and would be well across the sea by the time she received his letter. He was off to do big things, so he assured her, and would hope for the day when they would meet again and still be the best of friends. The news had shaken Gwendolyn more than she cared to acknowledge to herself. It made her restless and eager for a break in her present life. To be sure, John Neale could have nothing to offer at this momentous decision, for after all he had sailed into it, so what of that? Still the thought would persist, he had wanted to make her of his world and she had refused. Now that world and its people seemed the only one worth while and writing, the most desirable career. Vassili's persecutions at the time were all that she needed to make her flure up at him furiously, box his astonished ears and then order him peremptorily out of her dressing room. Right then and there Gwendolyn mentally gave up the Russian Ballet.

Nor for one instant did she allow Vassili to touch her, nor even give an explanation, for Gwendolyn remembered her last evening with Fedyas—and was as adamant. When the enraged Vassili turned on her, his ears still ringing, his face convulsed with anger and asked her what she thought he had bothered with her for from the start and pushed her to the very front ranks of the dancers, if not for some reward

SPECIAL RELIGIOUS SERVICES

First Presbyterian
The largest crowd of the week was present last night at the First Presbyterian church to hear Mrs. Demarest, the woman evangelist, the church being completely filled. This young woman, direct, thoughtful, serious, is such a change from the profession of a woman that some people are still reverberating from the shock of finding that not only may a woman speak most acceptably, but that such services may be maintained in a worshipful spirit.

Saturday night, of course, there will be no services. On tomorrow morning each of the two churches in the combination will hold its own service. Dr. Chandler at Bigelow M. E. and Rev. D. C. Boyd at First Presbyterian.

Sunday afternoon and evening, however, first church is expected to be filled to overflowing. In the afternoon at 3:00 o'clock Mr. Demarest will speak of what she says is "The Greatest Thing in the World."

At the evening hour, seven o'clock Mr. Agnew Demarest will again present a fifteen minute organ recital. Those who heard him last week greatly enjoyed the music and were greatly repaid, the announcement should fill the church long before the time for the regular service at seven-fifteen. Mrs. Demarest's subject for the evening will be "The Supreme Question." This is one of her strongest sermons, and those who are forced to forego the pleasure of hearing her every night should not miss this one.

Services will continue all next week at First church, beginning at seven-fifteen. Thursday afternoon at 2 p. m. Mrs. Demarest will speak to women only and girls over fifteen on "The Virgin Mary." This is a very famous address, delivered at Grand Rapids to over 2500 women and will undoubtedly draw a mighty throng.

Mrs. Demarest sang in a voice of marvellous sweetness a hymn of her own, composed based on the text for the evening sermon: Phil. 2:12: "Work out your own salvation." This hymn has not yet been published, having been written by her last fall especially for this sermon. Mrs. Demarest then brought a stirring message on the subject—"God's Business Enterprise." She said in part:

"We look at the work of the apostles and are discouraged. It makes us turn the more into Him for power. 'Faithful is He that calleth you.' Paul seeks to impress the early Christians with the solemnity of the task that is before them. He was a good teacher because he was a good father. Love is the best teacher after all. Socrates well-known saying regarding a pupil of his is remembered: 'I cannot teach him anything for he does not love me.'"

"The test of real love of real discipleship is absence. We often envy his disciples but we have a greater honor than they, we can serve Him in His absence. My mother used to tell us children—'Love is not manifested in kisses and words, but in action, much more in my absence. Now is the time to prove to our Master our own loyalty to Him.'"

"God is the greatest worker in this universe. The great spirit of God is ceaselessly working engaged in a great business, a work infinitely greater than the creation of the universe. The creation was only the background stage-setting for His masterpiece—Man. And his heart will never be satisfied until men are all redeemed, and through the Holy Spirit God is doing this today. Our joy is to be co-workers with Him, partners with the Father; not only as joint-heirs with Christ, but co-workers. Salvation of man—this is God's business. The text is often misquoted. Before you can work out your own salvation you must have it to begin with, and must realize the rest of it—for it is God which worketh in you."

Victorious Life Conference
Yesterday was the fourth day of the Victorious Life Conference, which closes with the services of tomorrow. Both of the workers spoke at the afternoon session. Their messages are always heart-searching in the light of God's word, and their objective is to honor Christ and help Christian people to realize their blessed privilege of abiding in Christ, and being filled with the Spirit to enjoy unbroken fellowship with God and complete victory over sin in their hearts and lives. Man may never expect to get into a state where he will no longer be tempted to sin, but the Christian may and should, by the grace of God reach the place where he is free from the temptation. Dr. Ramsey continued the studies in the eighth chapter of Romans. He showed the difference between the "old" and the "new man." The regenerated Christian is a "new creature in Christ Jesus. All things have passed away and all things have become new."

Rev. McQuillen emphasized the Lord's standard as being an absolute standard, and declared the peace of God which is our privilege, to be a perfect peace. The secret of this happy life is expressed in two words of five letters each, "yield and trust."

At the night service, after the usual and inspiring service of song, Rev. Dr. Ramsey again brought the message, speaking on the topic: "Who God is and How to Know Him."

He dwelt at some length on the difference between knowing God and knowing something about God. God has revealed himself in his works, in his word and in the person of his Son, Jesus Christ. And through these agencies and by the Holy Spirit he makes himself known to any person who desires and seeks to know Him. And according to the scripture, it is only the fool who says: "No God."

Our conception of God is shown by our attitude toward Him. The Jewish conception of God when revealed in Jesus Christ, His Son, was such that they crucified the Son of God and said, "Away with Him." Our conception is just as dangerous when we do not acknowledge Him as our Lord and Savior. God is good, and wills only that which is good. God is holy in all of his dealings and attributes. God is love, and nothing but love, and whoever knows Him will not run from Him but toward Him.

To know God and him whom he hath sent, is life eternal. The result of faith is committal.

At the close of the address a number of persons expressed their determination to commit themselves entirely to God and accept His salvation.

There will be services again tonight at 7:30.

Sunday School Night at the Trinity revival Friday night, brought to the services the best attendance of the week, Mrs. C. N. Smith's class leading. The regular orchestra added much to

COUNCIL DEFERS ACTION ON NEW BUILDING CODE

The proposed amendments to the Building Code ordinance were given a whirl before Council at its called session Friday night but at the end of a long discussion final action was deferred until the next regular meeting, when it is hoped to have the amendments revised so as to meet the requirements and needs of all concerned.

At the conclusion of the discussion the matter was referred back to the objectors and supporters of the amendments with a view to securing concessions, if any, each side may be willing to make in the way of compromise. They must have their redrafts in the hands of Solicitor Shelton by next Tuesday in order that he may incorporate them in the revised ordinance. Councilman Westphal objected to the provision requiring baths in every dwelling now existing and all new ones and he suggested that feature be eliminated from the amendment in respect to existing dwellings and limit the requirement to new homes costing more than $4,000.

The suggestion was considered a good one and will likely be incorporated in the redraft although it was agreed it would automatically work itself out right and protect the small home owner from being forced to go to the expense of installing bath when not financially able.

Supporters of the amendments who were there in numbers headed by Attorney Edgar G. Miller and they assailed the code in its present form all along the line, branding it as unfair and an injustice on the property owners of the city.

They stood "pat" on their demands, asserting that the amendments requiring a reduction of space between buildings; building of dwellings on streets less than 30 feet wide accepted by the city and eliminating the bath tub feature from the cheaper constructed homes should be adopted.

Judge Thomas flayed the code with its multitude of restrictions and fantastic notions and he said it would result in the poor people having to foot the bill. He denounced the bath tub idea, saying that kings and queens had lived thousands of years without such convenience and ventured the assertion that many of those fostering that plan had never seen a bath tub until they were middle aged as there were no such invention 50 years ago.

He said that it would be no more reasonable for merchants to demand that a certain kind of carpet or window shade be required put in every dwelling or the music dealer to demand that every home be required to purchase a piano.

He pointed to the big profits of all business during the war and declared this more to be a selfish proposition. After inquiring who was demanding the bath tub provision he said he had a suspicion and then he directed attention to the limited building space here as compared with Dayton and Columbus with their vast territory on all sides for expansion. He also wondered why it became necessary to submit such an issue as was presented in the proposition at hand to any organization for its approval other than council which he said was the proper tribunal for its consideration and the sole arbiter.

He asserted it was high time to have a little liberty in this town in such matters of public importance and in closing said that in his opinion most of the entire code is "unconscionable" and declared if he were a member of council he would vote not to amend but to repeal.

Judge Ball and others stated that many of the alley houses were not dwellings but mere shacks unfit for human habitation, and suggestions were made that provision be made which would require the cleaning up of such places, repairs made and sanitary measures enforced in order to take care of the cheap renter, those unable to pay more.

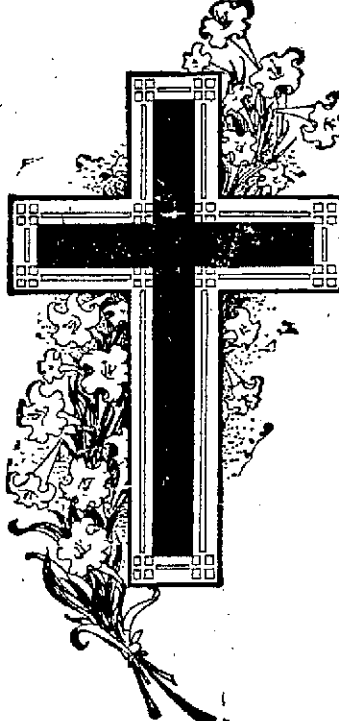

Bruce Tindor entered a protest against the bath tub provision, declaring that it would result in the increasing of rents of alley houses and place an added burden upon those who live in these places, scarcely being able to pay under present conditions. He brought a round of laughter when he referred to his alley houses as being better in appearance than the council chamber.

Fire Chief Leedom urged that some provision for the protection of those living in alley houses against fire hazard. He stated that most of the alley houses are but mere fire traps and that these people seldom carry insurance.

E. S. Gillilan, of the Chamber of Commerce Committee, stated that the C. of C. directors were willing to meet the builders half way in the way of compromising disputed points and were willing to make concessions.

Pizarro's Line In the Sand

Turning to his men, who had followed him through many an ordeal, he said: "Take your choice. On one side lies home and peace and comfort. On the other side of that line is 'danger, hardship and death.'"

History records that every man stepped across the line and followed the leader.

Many a time in stirring moments have men been called to decide on heroic courses of conduct.

Much less stirring, but quite as essential, are the decisions made every day in Portsmouth. The line in the sand is the prompting of conscience; there is no one near; the choice must be made with no martial accompaniment.

In such times, the choice for right comes with least strain when one has the background of religious training buttressed by church attendance.

Following Christ is not easy. It means positive action on the right side; but to him that overcometh, a crown of life is promised.

Attend the church of your choice tomorrow. Hear more of the essentials of the teachings of Jesus Christ. Decide to follow Him; and tell the pastor.

It is understood that he does not intend to delegate the responsibility to the board of conciliators, but will himself conduct the negotiations, which it was not believed would require the further attention of President Harding.

the prisoners taken last night were confined. Sentries stationed in the street in front of the building refused to allow vehicles or pedestrians to pass in either direction.

Fire Alarms Turned In

While city firemen were aiding the police in patrolling the city to preserve order last night several fire alarms were turned in, but there were no fires. Authorities believe this was done by persons desiring to excite riot. The alarms came from different parts of the city. The big fire alarm bell on the central fire station was silenced in order to prevent gathering of crowds by the sounding of the bell.

Police Court Dispensed With

At the request of the police, the regular session of police court was dispensed with this morning. Officials said they thought it advisable not to arraign prisoners arrested last night for the present. Those held for investigation and on various minor charges in connection with last night's disorders will not be arraigned before Monday morning when the next session of court will be held.

Clara Hamon

to the doctor's question he said, "I told you she would do it. I'm going to die. I am weak and I want to go to bed."

Dr. Hardy told of caring for Mr. Hamon when he came to the sanatorium and quoted an admonition given by Mr. Hamon, thus:

"Doctor, take my right hand, I want you to promise me you never will reveal how I was shot, except in open court."

As Attorney General Freeling displayed the underclothing Hamon had worn and a gown he was placed in at the hospital, both Mrs. Jake Hamon and Clara wept into their handkerchiefs.

Dr. Hardy said the boy in the underclothing and a shirt corresponded with the wound.

Mrs. Jake Hamon was unable to compose herself and her son led her sobbing from the court room.

"Dr. Hardy said after the operation Hamon rallied and had the use of his faculties."

He said Clara Hamon came to the hospital the next morning and was permitted to see Hamon alone, the nurse being withdrawn.

"She did not stay more than two minutes, maybe three," Dr. Hardy said. After Clara left, Dr. Hardy said he went in and Hamon said he was going to die.

"That's the woman that did the work. I was lying in the same position as I am now," he quoted Hamon as saying. Hamon then was lying on his back on the hospital cot.

Adapted for the screen by LOUIS JOSEPH VANCE

Directed by Wesley Ruggles

Personally supervised by J. Parker Read Jr.

"Love," One of the Big Successes of the Screen Closes a Successful Engagement at The Eastland Theatre Tonight—Don't Fail to See This Great Production—Marvelous Scenes—Wonderful Settings—The World's Greatest Theme and An All-Star Cast.

Program Tonight

A—Overture, "Love, Nost." Eastland orchestra.

B—J. Parker Read presents Louise Glaum in "Love."

C—Pathe Presents the Eastland Review on Pathecolors.

D—The Hallroom Boys in "A Close Shave."

You'll all love "Love."

That's the title of the Louise Glaum picture at the Eastland tonight.

It's a J. Parker Read, Jr. production, different from anything this producer ever did before.

"Love" is a beautiful picture, an appealing production, and an ocular gem.

In "Love," the course of true love takes James Kirkwood in the role of Miss Glaum's sweetheart, to South America to find a fortune. True love—for her sister—takes the star into a devious path which will bring ease, joy and success from pain to the little sister, but to obtain which Miss Glaum makes a woman's sacrifice.

But the theme of "Love" is staunch and true to the line. Remember the line in our poetry book at school? "And story limits cannot keep love out."

So it is that the love of Natalie

(Miss Glaum) and Tom (James Kirkwood) endures despite Natalie's transgression and we have a logical happy ending which caps the dramatic climax of introducing the faithful Tom to his sweetheart as the unrecusable of another man.

The production deserves the highest praise for its moral tone and the big lesson it holds. The "song of love" in this case is not a sentimental dirge, but a very real melody of the soul.

The management of the Eastland Theatre wishes to especially call the attention of its women patrons to this picture as it has an unusual appeal to women.

Appointment Of Dr. Sawyer

good deal of sensitiveness at the White House about appointing Dr. Sawyer to be a Brigadier General. It wasn't exactly known whether the Senate would confirm, whether there might not be a controversy similar to the Grayson episode. Then it was that somebody suggested the idea of broadening the activities of Dr. Sawyer and a statement was issued that he would take charge of a general reorganization of warfare bureau in the government, including the United States public health service, the children's bureau, and kindred organizations but if the move was calculated to offset senatorial criticism it was unnecessary. On the other hand, it did stir up a controversy in an entirely unexpected direction.

Homopaths vs. Allopaths

Dr. Sawyer is a homopath while the majority of physicians in the army and navy and public health service belong to the opposite school of medicine known as allopathy. The clash between these two schools of thought has been going on inside and outside the government for years and it is naturally a source of disappointment to the allopaths to have a homopath put in charge of a reorganization which affects them so vitally. On top of this is the usual difficulty that is encountered in handling any questions of health supervision by the government, namely the attitude of the Christian Science believers who insist that the government ought to keep hands off the health question and that no medical oligarchy should reign in Washington.

Brigadier General Sawyer will have his hands full with these problems, all because it was deemed necessary to make some further justification for his appointment to the army than the simple announcement that the president wanted a family physician on duty at the White House. Some day Congress will provide for the place by statute and the chances are that neither political party would object to such a proposal for the health of the president is not a private but a public matter and the demands for his job are such that no matter can compensate for the energy lost or the vitality that is exhausted by the perplexities of the presidential office.

here from the south, and not particularly in by the negro population in general.

Police say they have information that many of the negroes are armed with Springfield rifles, which they purchased several years ago, following previous race riots, when the government placed a large number of the fire arms on the market.

Springfield Has Only Few Police

Chief of Police O'Brien did not attend the conference. The chief expressed the belief that the situation was under control and said he did not look for any more trouble.

He said the city was badly handicapped for lack of policemen.

There are only 28 men on the local police force. The force was reduced by 12 men when the city manager plan of government became effective in Springfield. The police today, under orders of City Manager Parsons, were still enforcing the order to keep all pool rooms and soft drink places closed. Many of these places opened up this morning under the impression that the order had been lifted, but were given instructions by police to close up. Other business houses remained open.

Trouble Outgrowth of Assault

The trouble, which started shortly before midnight last night, with the shooting of Patrolman Ryan, after he had ordered a group of negroes to disperse, was the outgrowth of an assault last Monday night on eleven-year-old Marge Fernan by an unknown negro, who escaped. Rumors that he had been arrested caused a crowd to gather at the county jail Wednesday night and again Thursday night, but these crowds were dispersed when it was proven the negro had not been caught. Crowds gathered again last night, but had been dispersed when the shooting began.

Eight of Population Negroes

Among the city's 60,000 population, are negroes, racial feeling is still strong and although no further trouble is anticipated, authorities point out that conditions are such that anything may occur.

Rioting Came In Three Phases

Last night's rioting apparently came in three phases. The opening conflict between officers and negroes came when Patrolman Ryan was shot three times after he had attempted to break up a crowd of negroes at Center and Jefferson streets, within a block and a half of the police station. Ryan is expected to recover. Later there was another brush in which Shirley Shaffer, a negro, received a slight scalp wound and later a general pitched battle in which twenty or more shots were fired between negroes and officers, the negroes dodging behind trees and buildings and the officers barricading themselves behind a curbing.

High Officials Fired Upon

While attempting to persuade negroes to return to their homes and desist from violence, City Manager Edgar E. Parsons, Mayor B. J. Westcott and Police Prosecutor Robert Pluck were fired upon, but none of them was wounded.

Between twenty and thirty arrests were made during the night, including that of one negro thought to have been the assailant of Patrolman Ryan. Police, however, would not confirm his identity, nor say where he had been taken. Most of the remaining prisoners were held on charges of disorderly conduct and investigation. Among those held was Asa Smith, a white man, who police say was found just outside the quarter where the shooting occurred with dynamite on his person.

Business Places Reopen

Places of business, closed last night when large crowds gathered on downtown streets and from seemed imminent, were opened for business again today. Mayor Westcott, however, was expected to issue an order during the day providing for the closing of all places of business at 8 p. m. Citizens will also be asked to remain at their homes to prevent congestion on the streets, it is said.

Not Mob Disorders

Last night's disturbances were not in the nature of mob disorders. There was no concerted attack either by whites or negroes the shootings here.

Springfield Rioting

are said to have been fired. The trail was followed from the street to an old building where it was lost. No further casualties have been reported to officials.

Officials Apprehensive

Officials indicated increasing apprehension over possibilities of the situation. Business and professional men and others familiar with racial conditions here although expressing hope that presence of guardsmen would have a deterrent influence upon trouble makers, said in view of past experiences they were prepared for further trouble.

General sentiment on the street seemed anything but optimistic.

Hate It On Foreign Negroes

Many negroes disclaim any feeling in the matter, declaring that the trouble has been precipitated by "differers," negroes who have come

Gossip From The Capital City

(BY MARCUS)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 12.—Consider the sorrows of public officials in these days!

They are on a steady payroll, it is true, but the young men in certain sections of Ohio where the tribute from the rich districts has not yet arrived. They are sure of their next meal at a time when many men are somewhat in doubt on that score. They are solvent during the sickness of business and do not have to ask each other every day whether "things are to get better soon." Yes, in the bodily comforts they have nothing to worry about.

But that isn't all. The money they get these days is "tough money" to use a slang expression for which no classical substitute is at hand. Everything is suspicion, sharp statement, critical tongue and all that. The men in power get into power through unprecedented use of the weapons of word offense. That was the outstanding fact of the past year. And distrust once planted is not easily allayed. More than that it spreads to other fields and adds to the sum total of misery.

Do we want examples? For three weeks nine men sat around a table day and night trying to evolve a taxation program that would be enforceable and bring in money without imposing terrific hardships. Do glad-humored acclamations their work? Nay, nay! They are buffeted about. The business men who agreed to an income tax are cursed by the tax dodgers who have been anxious to have the present method of easy tax-dodging continue. The farmers on the board are accused of having despoiled the rural men of their birthright of the uniform rule, and other taxpayers growl because the maximum tax rate is left too high. Now the uniform rule folks, giving the proposed solution only enough consideration to pick flaws, are satisfied they can pick it to pieces.

If we demand other examples, let us forecast the course of the rural hand which is anxious to make the uniform rule workable and arrange to tax credits at 100 per cent with no deduction for debt and with every avenue of escape closed to the tax dodger. Will they be thankful? Well, hardly. The hand met in secret session the other night and one and all agreed they would be everlastingly paraly say. The truth is nearer that the Governor is not as perversive in his ways as he is frightened, a badly frightened man. Having become involved in the reorganization smear without having taken trouble to examine the state government very carefully he is in desperate straits not knowing whether to turn nor what to do. As he told the Bankers' Association on the 11th, he does not know where he can stop for the utilities, the manufacturers, the labor people, the charitable organizations, the farmers, the building and loan men, the insurance interests and everyone else will be on his back next and his shoulders are not sufficient broad for the load. Plainly, they have made him ask that no one shoot for he is doing the very best he can and is nervous enough now.

Or let us consider the troubles of our fellow Ohioans lately domiciled in Washington. For years, long weary ones, after directing a war department that performed marvels, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, has heard nothing but curses. Because some men cheated at work on the cantonments and because there were some dishonest contractors—as there ever will be—Baker, Secretary of War, has heard nothing but curses. Because some men cheated at work on the cantonments and because there were some dishonest contractors—as there ever will be—Baker, Secretary of War, has heard nothing but curses. Because some men cheated at work on the cantonments and because there were some dishonest contractors—as there ever will be—Baker, Secretary of War, has heard nothing but curses.

IF KIDNEYS AND BLADDER BOTHER

Take Salts to Flush Kidneys and Neutralize Irritating Acids

Kidney and bladder weakness result from uric acid, says a noted authority. The kidneys filter this acid from the blood and pass it on to the bladder, where it often remains to irritate and inflame, causing a burning, scalding sensation, or setting up an irritation at the neck of the bladder, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night. The sufferer is in constant dread, the water passes sometimes with a scalding sensation and is very profuse; again, there is difficulty in voiding it.

Bladder weakness, most folks call it because they can't control urination. While it is extremely annoying and sometimes very painful, this is really one of the most simple ailments to overcome. Get about four ounces of Jad Salts from your pharmacist and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, continue this for two or three days. This will neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation to the bladder and urinary organs which then act normally again.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used by thousands of folks who are subject to urinary disorders caused by uric acid irritation. Jad Salts is spool for kidneys and causes no bad effects whatever.

Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink, which quickly relieves bladder trouble.—Adv.

and thereby makes the whole legislation social and not effective not in accordance with the plain provisions of the constitution. In passing it, Ohio is adopting the styles of other states and it will be interesting to note whether there are actual experiments in direct dealing with consumers or whether the measure is used only to save the complaining dairymen from prosecution. Which shall it be?

They never refer to farmer members of the Ohio General Assembly as "hussies," not after the watch the members of the Green Stalk Club put things over. This week they took the steps to bring the state to purchase an additional 90 acres lying between the present Ohio State Fair Grounds and the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks, said land to cost $350,000 of three cents. It may be an economy administration boasting of saving a dollar here and there, but the farmer expects to prevail. The moves on the checkerboard have been carefully studied out. The leader of the Corn Stalkers, Representative John H. Chester, helped get options for the state so that it could not be charged there is a crooked "real estate deal" involved in the matter. This done, the endorsement of the club was formally registered and that is about all there will be to it. Not a word was said until everything was ready and then there was action, not talk. Is it any wonder that the remainder of the membership respects the rural roosters who always know just what they want?

Coupled with the State Fair grounds addition, another proposition that the club may decide to translate into laws involve the pending forestry bills by Representative Harry D. Silver, of Toledo. This is the first grown-up step in advancement that Ohio has proposed to take and will involve an outlay of $70,000. What Dayton and Cincinnati have done without special authority is to be made legal, namely, the establishment of municipal forest reserves. Counties and townships are given the same rights and encourage.

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel. Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and a calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers. Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No gripping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

"You have a 'dark brown mouth'—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation—you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 50c.

Medical Facts And Chiropractic Fiction
in the case of Miriam Rubin, Waukegan, Ill.

Throughout the length and breadth of the country there has been heralded an alleged marvelous cure of what has been called "Talking Sickness." Reading the news articles and advertisements one learns that an 8-year-old girl of Waukegan, Ill., Miriam Rubin, was suffering from a "strange talking malady" that was so remarkable that "specialists" from all parts of the country were interested in her case. Further one learns that "every form of sedative had been administered without improvement," and "all the medical physicians and consulting specialists whose services were tendered 'failed to bring relief.' Finally a chiropractor 'pleaded for an opportunity to save the child and gained consent of the parents.' In a 'few moments' the chiropractor 'adjusted the second and fifth vertebrae and the talking stopped.' And, concluded the full page advertisements, in very large and very black type: "She Has Completely Recovered and Is As Healthy and Happy As You." So much for the fiction. What are the facts? Briefly these, as given to a representative of The Journal of The American Association by the parents of the child and Dr. R. H. T. Nesbit, the attending physician.

1. The child suffered not from a strange "talking" sickness, but from a form of encephalitis (inflammation of the brain) with excitation.
2. The "incessant" talking was in reality intermittent, both before and after the alleged "treatment."
3. The chiropractic "treatment" did not "cure" the disease as claimed; they had no appreciable effect on its course.
4. The nurse's record shows that the chiropractor gave "treatments" from February 12 to February 23, at which time he was dismissed as the patient's condition gave no evidence of benefit from his "treatments." On the contrary, she was complaining of severe pain along the course of the spine. Since then the family physician has entire charge of the case.
5. The patient is not restored to health; on March 1 she still was seriously ill.

According to Dr. Nesbit's statement and the case record at no time was opiates administered. In conclusion, the case appears to be one of epidemic encephalitis which is following a course such as has been reported by many observers. As is now generally well known, some of these cases are of the lethargic type (lethargic encephalitis)—newspaper "sleeping sickness"—while others show extreme excitation and muscular twitching—newspaper "talking sickness". The case of Miriam Rubin is obviously of the latter type.

PAINS IN SIDE AND BACK
Caused by Woman's Ills and Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Grafton, Pa.—"I was troubled with inflammation and pains in my sides and back. After doctoring with different doctors and not getting relief, I had almost given up hopes when my sister told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and knowing that she had really been helped by it, I purchased it. I was unable to do my work at that time, but after taking several bottles of the Vegetable Compound I can now do anything about the house, and I have a four months old baby that is the healthiest and biggest baby for his age that I have ever seen, and I give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound all the praise for my health."

Mrs. BLAIR L. FISHER, R.D. 1, Box 37, Grafton, Pa.

Working early and late—lifting, carrying, and bending of household duties—is it any wonder that it results in backaches and kindred ills. But every woman who suffers as Mrs. Fisher did should profit by her experience and give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial.

SCIOTOVILLE VS. HUNTINGTON TONIGHT

Tonight, at 7:30, the S. H. S. boys will clash with the Huntington high school quintet.
Both teams are in fine shape and this should be an evenly matched contest as has been staged on the Sciotoville floor for some time. The S. H. S. lads are determined to win out, although they realize it will be no easy victory.
S. H. S. will select its players from the following: Steadman, Edwards, Brock, Powell, Brown, Courtney and Winters. Admission 35 cents. Last game of season.

P. H. S. PLAYS AQUINAS TEAM HERE TONIGHT

Tonight in the High School Auditorium the P. H. S. basketball quintet will clash in their annual battle with Aquinas College five, of Columbus, the battle to begin at 8 o'clock.
The Red and Blue aggregation is in fine shape for tonight's game with all regulars eligible to play. The Columbus College quintet has a splendid record for this season and is invading Portsmouth with the belief that they will easily add another scalp to their belt.
The visitors, like others, no doubt, will go into the game bubbling over with confidence and will come out of the fray with their minds sadly changed.
The locals had a hard game at Chillicothe last night, but it only served to put them in shape for tonight's contest. This will be the first time the teams have met this season.

To See Real Fighter In Ailes

Webb Colley notified J. F. Potts last night that he will not arrive here until Sunday from his home in Wellsburg, W. Va. He will fight six rounds with Billy Ailes in the Auditorium Monday night. Those who have seen Ailes in action say he is a real two-handed fighter and this will should be a corker. It will be worth the price of admission.

TO GIVE EXHIBITION OF SHADOW BOXING

Don Baxter, who will arrive here Sunday from his home in Lima to meet Johnny Andrews in a ten round fight in the Auditorium Monday night, will give an exhibition of shadow boxing in the restaurant room of the Selby shoe factory during the noon hour Monday. He will be accompanied by his manager, Walter Perry, who will give a short talk on how the boxing game is being elevated to a high plane.

Chillicothe Five Walks Away From P. H. S. Floor Squad

Portsmouth high school's basketball five met defeat when they played the Chillicothe high school five in the latter's gym Friday night, the Ross county five walking away with the game by a score of 34 to 12.
The Chillicothe school was represented on the floor by an entirely different set of players that met Portsmouth here several weeks ago.
The locals played a five man defensive game that did not prove entirely satisfactory, judging from the score, the Chillicothe forwards making long shots a number of times.
The locals on receiving the ball usually made their way down the floor with the sphere, but when the attempt at goal was made the ball did not seem to hit the basket just right and the chance for two points went glimmering. This happened many times during the contest, the locals not being accustomed to the Chillicothe floor and baskets.

The Wolves hit their stride again last night, and won three straight from the Bankers at the Wilhelmite Hall, by the scores of 21-10, 21-4 and 21-10.
The Wolves were in fine form, and won the first two easily, but in the last game the Bankers took a sudden spurt, and had the score, 12-2 in their favor. But the Wolves are a fighting bunch, and pulled up passed the Bankers, and won the game.
The star of the afternoon was undoubtedly Lloyd Craden. His friends didn't know he was able to play as good a game as he put up yesterday. He was spry as a piece of steel, and as full of boys as a keg of ancient beer, jumping into the air and killing the ball constantly. McNamara and Fritz played the best game for the Bankers.
The line-ups were as follows:
Wolves—Chester Riggles, Captain; Lloyd Craden, Williams, Gillen, Clausen and Bauman.
Bankers—Robert McNamara, Horst, Fritz Uhl, Brunny and Kuglewon.

Most women are particular about the heels on their shoes; and I'm just as particular to see that the right height of heel is put on each shoe, and not only that, but also to see that each foot has the heel that fits the arch.
In offering you the Montrose I give you one of the best balanced oxfords as to heels, toe style and shoe goodness I have—made of Cuban brown calf skin, light welted soles and leather heels—usually priced at twelve-fifty in most stores—my price figured on this spring cost is eight-fifty.

WILL SEND QUESTIONNAIRE TO ALL GROCERS ON DAYLIGHT SAVING

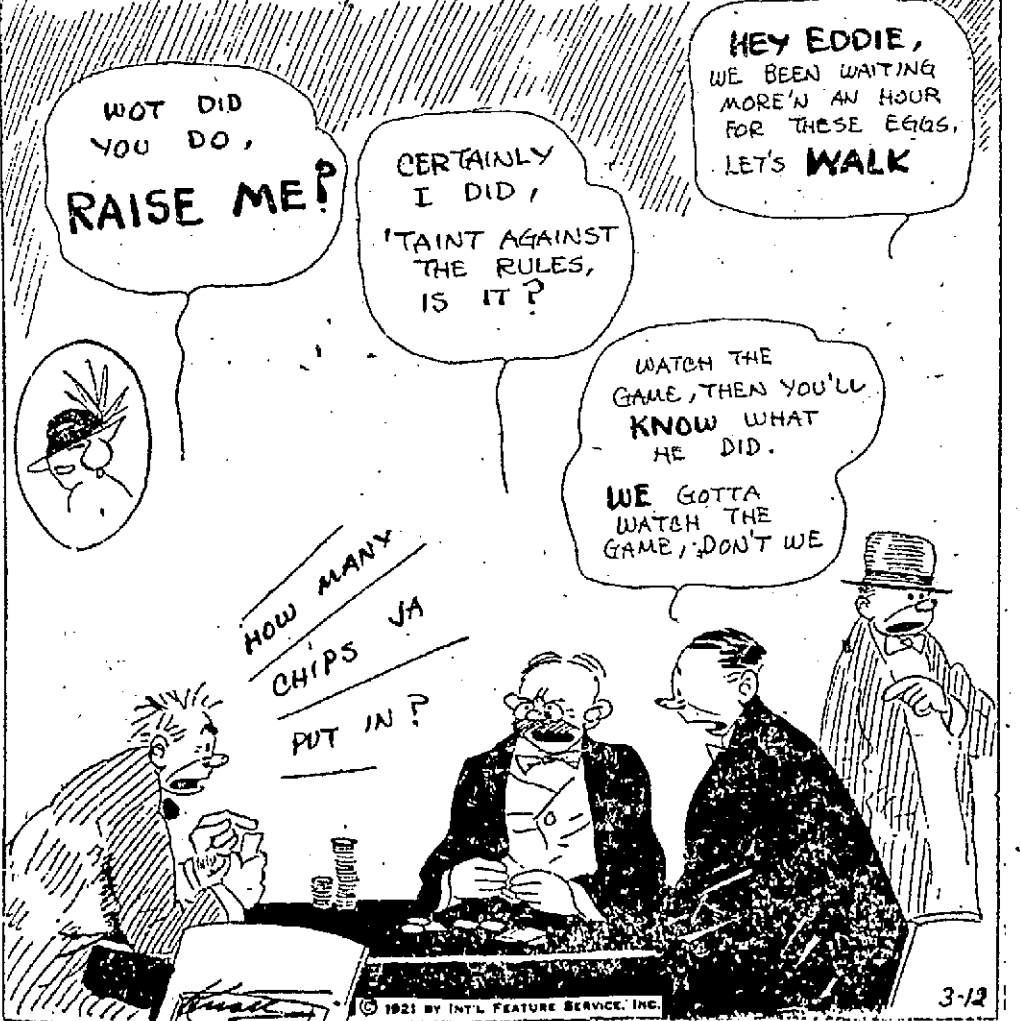

Friday afternoon when the Retail Merchants' Committee of the Chamber of Commerce met to consider the daylight saving plan and summer closing hours a committee composed of Fred Lorey, Howard Baughman, John Underwood and Dan Conroy representing the Industrial Baseball League Commission was present to urge the adoption of daylight saving.
Some merchants, it was stated, would like to keep the regular opening and closing hours, 8 a. m. to 5:30 p. m., with Thursday half holiday, while others want to open at 7:30 and close at 4:30 and dispense with Thursday afternoon closing. The committee decided that it would be best to send a questionnaire to every retail merchant in order to get some idea as to what hours are wanted for the summer months.

THE REVOLT IN RUSSIA

EVERYONE who has not entirely lost faith in the good sense of humanity believes that the time will come when the red tyrants will be swept out of Russia. Who knows but what the time has come? Nevertheless, the world has been deceived so many times by anti-bolshevik movements in Russia that it is inclined to be skeptical.

The people of Russia who are not direct beneficiaries of the soviet system will some day rise in revolt against bolshevism. The masses will not always submit to being robbed and starved in order to maintain a regime that does not know the first principles of successful or democratic government.

The revolt against red rule in the Petrograd district may be an indication of a condition of mind that may spread throughout Russia, resulting in the overthrow of the soviet tyrants, and it may be only a sporadic protest that will be suppressed by the military power still wielded by Lenin and Trotzky.

The unscrupulous methods which the soviet government has adopted to keep men in the army appeals to the lowest motives of the Russians. They are assured of plenty to eat if they are willing to support the red government against their fellow men. It is doubtful if patriotism or loyalty enters into the thought of many of the bolshevik soldiers.

There is one encouraging feature in the news now coming out of Russia—the Russians who are leading the movement against the reds are not men of the old regime, most of whom were not trusted by the people, but it appears to be a protest of the proletarians themselves, who are the greatest sufferers under the soviet rule.

The world will hope that a successful revolution against the soviet czars has begun.

BANNING INDECENT MOVIES

THE National Association of Motion Picture Producers recognizes that the public has had cause to complain against a number of films recently inflicted upon it and adopts resolutions promising to assist in the prosecution of offenders.

This is encouraging. It shows that motion picture men realize that the greatest menace to the motion picture industry is in films that transgress the bounds of decency.

While narrow-mindedness, the disposition to see evil in practically everything, must be guarded against in the censoring, there is a serious reflection upon censors in the other direction by reason of some of the pictures they have passed, showing their utter unfairness to act as judges. The chief complaint is not so much of lewdness in the pictures considered as of the tendency of certain productions to present criminals in a rather favorable light, while representatives of law and morality are ridiculed.

It is just a matter, as recognized by right-minded picture men, of applying the rules of common decency and common sense. The resolution bans films that are "obscene, salacious, indecent and immoral," those who "emphasize and exaggerate sex appeal," those based on "commercialized vice," or which make drunkenness, gambling or the use of narcotics attractive. Other things ruled against are "scenes which unnecessarily prolong expressions or demonstrations of passionate love," or "particularly suggestive bedroom and bathroom scenes and scenes of inciting dances," those exhibiting nakedness or scanty attire, and those which instruct the feeble-minded in "methods of committing crime." Scenes ridiculing public officers, policemen, sailors, soldiers, ministers, priests or rabbis also are banned. The picture producer who cannot subscribe heartily to the aims of this movement should be driven to the business. The public can no more submit to having rules of propriety in the movies laid down to it by some underworld spirit than it can submit to having its amusements censored by "narrow puritans."

The Dangerous Dames

By Frederic J. Haskin

NEW YORK CITY, March 12.—Are women a political menace? This is the latest grave and important question to be thrust upon the unsuspecting nation by the governor of New York. Governor Miller not only thinks they are; he has had the rare courage to tell them so. His recent charge to that effect was leveled specifically at the New York State League of Women Voters, but, inasmuch as there is a similar feminine organization in every state, he has succeeded in placing about two million women voters on the defensive.

The menacing thing about the women, in the opinion of the governor and other male political leaders, is that they insist upon maintaining these independent, non-partisan, feminine leagues as political instruments, instead of casting their individual lots with the two great American political parties. In other words, they are working for the things they want as a sex, rather than as individuals.

The League of Women Voters replies to this that it is the only way they can make their voices count. So far the ballot has availed the women nothing. Woman suffrage today is as Mr. Gilbert Keith Chesterton quaintly puts it, "a legal fiction." Women are affiliated in fairly large numbers with both the Democratic and Republican parties, but they have, as yet, absolutely no party power. That may be developed in time, but meanwhile they think some other means must be used to achieve women's rights.

The long fight for suffrage taught the women the value of a non-partisan organization. For years individual women worked for suffrage through the two political parties without making the slightest impression. They might have been so working yet, had the prohibitionists not come along and shown them a better expedient. The prohibitionists thrust the 18th amendment through congress by organizing large and powerful non-partisan political forces in every state. When a political candidate announced himself in favor of prohibition, they helped to elect him, and when he declared himself against it they helped to defeat him. The man's party did not count; he alone was held responsible.

After watching the efficiency of this method for a short time, the women decided to imitate it. They too, built up powerful organizations in each state, and thus suffrage was forced into the constitution only a trifle behind prohibition.

The Trouble Has Just Begun

But having gained the ballot, the women realized that their fight for women's rights was still in its infancy, and they were unwilling to demobilize an organization which had proved so valuable an aid to victory. In every state, therefore, the women's suffrage association was merely changed into the State League of Women Voters, and the national association became the National League of Women Voters, retaining a headquarters in Washington.

The league represents the conservative wing of woman suffrage. It has no connection with the National Woman's Party, containing the more radical feminists, which recently held its convention in Washington. But both organizations are working for the same things.

What are these things—these so-called women's rights—which as yet have not been taken up by the Republican and Democratic parties? Equal opportunity with men, the protection of children, and the promotion of education are the principal ones. The women are solidly behind such legislation as the Sheppard-Towner (maternity and infancy) bill, now before the United States congress, for example, and likewise the Keeney-Fess bill containing a large appropriation for the teaching of home economics. They want better salaries paid to school teachers; modest examinations for all school children, and the precision of hot lunches in every public school. The League of Women Voters is in favor of laws protecting women and children in industry. It is constantly working for a better and cheaper food supply. It has started a widespread campaign for the unification of laws in all states especially laws relating to marriage and divorce.

The chief function of the League is the promotion of political education. It conducts classes in American citizenship, in election laws and methods, and in special laws concerning women. Mass meetings are constantly held under its auspices for the non-partisan discussion of proposed legislation and other matters of public interest.

Are these activities a menace? In answer to the governor's charge, the New York League of Women Voters submitted the following embarrassing questions:

Beckling The Governor

"The chief work of the League of Women Voters is educating voters, especially women. Does not the Republican party want an intelligent electorate?

"We believe that voters should study the public questions in an unprejudiced way. Therefore we offer a non-partisan platform for their discussion, in which we welcome both Republican and Democratic speakers. Does the Republican party prefer that the voters should accept a partisan view without knowing anything about the subject?"

"We insist that public office should be given to the man who will best serve the public, and not in payment for party service. We believe that true economy will result when public office is regarded not as party spoils, but as public trust. Does the Republican party disagree with this?"

"We believe that unthinking submission to the dictates of the small groups which habitually control our dominant parties would be a menace to our country's future. Does this belief preclude our working with the Republican party?"

"You deny our right to work as a group outside of the political party for political measures, and you say that all non-partisan groups which seek to affect legislation and the choice of candidates are a menace to the welfare of the country. Do you include in this such groups as the State Charities Aid, the Duynemans League, the Grange, the Citizens Union, the Bar Association, the American Legion and the Manufacturers' Association? Or are we a menace only because we are women?"

So far, the governor has made no reply to these interrogations. But the machinery of the Republican party has been set in motion against the league in all parts of the state. Party office is being denied to women who are members of the league, while Republican officials are seizing every opportunity to prevent women from joining the organization.

Far from being discouraging, however, this campaign is proving highly beneficial to the league. It has simply served to change the lukewarm and half-hearted among its own ranks into ardent defenders, and to attract thousands of new members to its banner.

"After all a governor makes an excellent press agent," mused a New York Woman Voter, the other morning, as she checked a long list of new subscriptions. "If this rush of new members keeps up, the next thing you know we will be presenting him with a loving cup."

Little By Little

Little by little the time goes by—
Short, if you sing through it, long if you sigh.

Little by little—an hour a day,
Gone with the years that have vanished away.

Little by little the race is run;
Trouble and waiting and toil are done.

Little by little the skies grow clear;
Little by little the sun comes near;

Little by little the days smile out;
Gladder and brighter on pain and doubt.

Little by little the seed we sow
Into a beautiful yield will grow.

Little by little the world grows strong;
Fighting the battle of right and wrong.

Little by little the wrong gives way—
Little by little the right has sway.

Little by little all longing ends;
Struggle up nearer the shining ends.

Little by little the good in man
Blossoms to beauty for human ken;

Little by little the angels see
Prophecies better of good to be;

Little by little the God of all
Lifts the world nearer the pleading call.

A Matter of Collecting

In one of the famous stone quarries of the west two Irishmen were blasting. Accidentally, one of them was blown to atoms. The other rushed to the dead man's home, crying, "Mrs. Murphy, have you got Pat's life insured?"

"Dead, in faith, I have," replied the newly-made widow.

"Well, then, Mrs. Murphy, you can collect Pat's insurance, but I'm sorry to say you will never collect Pat."

The doctor—"You are too well fed. You should give your stomach a rest. What I prescribe is a trip to Russia."

NEW YORK, March 12.—New York likes to appear intellectually superior to the rest of the world—and then spend its time chuckling over cheap vaudeville jokes and guffawing at comic strips. It has jeered the intellectualism of the brilliant Sir Philip Gibbs and laughed up at its sleeve at Tagore.

Yet any night a vaudeville accordionist will strike a few chords and remark: "My father is a well read man. He knows the alcoholic contents of every patent medicine in the drug store." The hilarious uproar will not subside for moments.

I like vaudeville yea even double up with laughter at the burlesque Irishman in green whiskers—and I do not think it is a thing of which to be ashamed, but New Yorkers do. Simon Strunsky once remarked that New York should remove its intellect from its glass case.

It is no secret that a New York newspaper with the largest strictly metropolitan circulation built it up with comic pictures in which a brick was thrown in the last picture. The Evening Post, the most carefully and ably edited newspaper in town, has the smallest circulation.

Patty Arbuckle walking up Broadway will draw a larger crowd than a group of new pictures at the Metropolitan. Yet a mention of Arbuckle in any society New York gathering will cause a supercilious lift of eyebrows. At a morning musicale at the Biltmore the other morning, a forgotten lady asked a friend: "Who is this person, Mr. Chaplin?"

New York needs a blending of the aesthetic and the roughneck to make it more human. Loud laughter, except under the stimulus of home brew, is getting so it nearly comes under the head of crime. Back in my town the man with the loudest laugh was the ray of sunshine at every party. Here he is no gentleman and they suspect that his father might have been in

An Everyday Affair

Mr. Mugg—Anything in the newspapers, dear?

Mrs. Mugg—Not much, love. Mrs.

Gaybird, the well-known society leader, having remembered that she has not seen her daughter for the last five days, has notified the police that the girl is missing.

Law and the Profits

"How did you come to be a profiteer?"

"It was all because of the law of supply and demand," whimpered the culprit. "I was trying to get a sufficient supply of money to meet the demand for it."

At the Circus

"I see the sword-swallower isn't eating very much today."

"No, he said that the last sword he swallowed today, took the edge off his appetite."

Hard Loading

Went to—Hello, Dusty, haven't seen you for a long time. What you doing now?

Dusty Rhodes—O, I'm loading hard as usual, 12 hours a day.

What America Needs

America needs more flannel shirts and fewer satin-upholstered touring cars.

America needs more cows and fewer silk shirts.

We have too many diamonds and not enough alarm clocks. We can use more working aprons and fewer promoters.

We have too much oil stock on hand and not enough Thrift Stamps.

We have too many critics and not enough constructionists.

We are out on a spree of success. If we could get each individual to assume his proper personal responsibility for thirty days, things would straighten out.—The Silent Partner.

Five Years Ago

It is probable that the Prince de Carignan, from whom John Law rented Hotel de Soissons, was one of the few figures in the mid speculation which occurred in France in 1720, to make a fortune and keep it. In renting the building he stipulated that the gardens remain in his control and that he be granted a monopoly to the extent that dealings in Mississippi stock be legal only within the confines of his grounds. He erected 500 small tents and pavilions for the use of brokers and their clients, and it is estimated that his rentals for space in the garden netted him monthly an average of over $50,000.—World's Work.

Q. I have a sack yard flock of chickens and would like to know which is better, to hatch a brood each year or three years apart? B. F. M.

A. It is best to hatch chickens each year, if possible, as the hen invariably lays the largest number of eggs in her pullet year, and is therefore more profitable.

Q. What was Roger Bacon's formula for gunpowder? M. N.

A. The first English formula for gunpowder was made by Roger Bacon in 1270, and was as follows: "Mix together saltpetre with lura, opum and sulphur and you will make thunder and lightning. If you know the mode of mixing," Bacon's humor was shown by the fact that the mysterious words were merely a transposition of the letters found in carbonum pulvis (charcoal.)

It's plain "Tom" Marshall now, too. He ripened and mellowed as "Vice-President," and left office attended by everybody's good wishes. Washington's loss is Indiana's gain.

Germany's beer bill is as large as it was the year before the war began, but the volume of larger has decreased greatly. Fritz is paying just as much but getting a lot less.
